

Endorsed Order:

This supplemental “Notice of Objections” is procedurally inappropriate. The Court does not accept piecemeal submissions with respect to the form of orders it enters to implement its rulings. Any objections to the Court’s order or its underlying ruling must be made by a motion under FRBP 9023 or 9024, or, more appropriately, on appeal.

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTICE OF OBJECTIONS TO PROPOSED ORDER AND PROPOSED COUNTER-ORDER

Plaintiffs Celestine Elliott and Lawrence Elliott object to the proposed Order submitted by General Motors LLC (hereafter “non-debtor GM”). This Supplements their Notice Of Objections to Proposed Order and Proposed Counter-Order, Doc. Number 12822.

The Elliots wish to clarify prior to Entry of Order that their proposed counter-order is meant solely to set forth an Order that conforms to the ruling of the Court denying on the merits the Ellliots’ Motion for an Order of Dismissal, asserting this Court’s subject matter jurisdiction over their lawsuit pending before the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, Elliott v. General Motors LLC, Docket No. 1:14-cv-00691 (D.D.C. Apr. 23, 2014), (“the Elliott lawsuit”), and purporting to impose the terms of the 2009 Sale Order and Injunction issued by this Court to stay their action pending the resolution of certain “threshold issues” and other matters contemplated in this Court’s Scheduling Orders and rulings in connection with Non-Debtor GM’s Motion to Enforce the Court’s July 2009 Sale Order and Injunctions, In re Motors Liquidation, 1:09-bk-50026, Doc. No. 12620, April 21, 2014).

The Elliotts’ do not consent to and object to the imposition of any stay on their case because they have not been heard regarding the factors that would be relevant were injunctive relief appropriate in this contested matter. In particular, Plaintiffs note that their ignition switch lawsuit will be heard by Judge Jesse E Furman as part of the coordinated proceedings before him, In re Ignition Switch Litigation, 1:14-md-02543. The finding that GM would be subject to an irreparable and substantial risk of inconsistent rulings or judgments is therefore without foundation unless GM and the Court meant to assume that Judge Furman would issue such inconsistent rulings and judgments. Respectfully, Lawrence Elliott and Celestine Elliott--who are likely to prevail in their contention that the claims that they assert against Non-Debtor GM are not retained liabilities of the debtor that was once before this Court, General Motors Corporation--have not had a reasonable opportunity show that, given the irreparable injury they face, the equities balance in their favor, and the public interest militates against staying their action.

The Elliotts’s prior assertion that the Sale Order and Injunction cannot be applied to stay their lawsuit on due process grounds should have included the binding authority upon which they partly base their objection. They seek the Court’s indulgence by including it here: In re Johns-Manville Corp., 600 F.3d 135, 148-49; 158 (2010), cert.

denied, Travelers Indem. Co. v. Chubb Indem. Ins. Co. 131 S. Ct. 644, 178 L. Ed. 2d 512, 2010 U.S. LEXIS 9368, 79 U.S.L.W. 3328.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Gary Peller
